BROWNELL, CRAFT BEERS AT CIC BOAT SHOW

"Beautiful!" is hardly a word used to describe a boat show. Still, it's commonly voiced by visitors at the annual Progressive Catawba Island Boat Show slated for 3 days, April 27-29, in Port Clinton.

Perhaps it's the show's unique setting at the prestigious Catawba Island Club. Or, maybe it's the fact that this show, first held in 2005, is a sure sign another boating season has begun. But, whatever you call it, fun is a trademark of this event.

Headlining the live music on the entertainment deck overlooking the marina will be singer-songwriter Steve Brownell. He recently recorded his latest album in Nashville titled "No Matter What." He is one of the boater's favorite entertainers that regularly appears during the summer at Put-In-Bay.

While listening to Brownell, show visitors can also partake in the current popularity of craft beers. The brews will take center stage on Saturday when Cleveland's world-class Great Lakes Brewery brings a selection of its craft beers for show goers to sample.

Add in other activities, like the "Discover Sailing" boat rides in which a licensed captain takes out show visitors for their first-time sailing experience. "Discover Sailing" is provided by Harbor North of Huron and it makes the boat show an escape into spring.

Now in its 14th year, the show has been dubbed one of the classiest weekend boating events of the year. Moreover, it is the only time the exclusive CIC marina and grounds are open to the public.

Admission and parking are always FREE. For more, go to: www.catawbaislandboatshow.com
